CLEANING PROGRAMME -SAMARITAN AND SES COLLEGE

16-7-2024

On 16th July 2024, the Samaritan Palliative Care Society in collaboration with the SES College Extension Committee conducted a Cleaning Programme in Sreekandapuram town. The initiative was part of the ongoing efforts to promote environmental hygiene and community health awareness among residents.

Objective

The primary objective of the cleaning programme was to improve the sanitation and cleanliness of public spaces in Sreekandapuram town. The programme aimed to engage students and community members in environmental stewardship by actively participating in cleaning drives. It also sought to raise awareness about the importance of maintaining a clean environment for better public health and to prevent the spread of diseases.

Outcome

The cleaning programme was successfully executed with active participation from students, volunteers, and local residents. Key public areas, streets, and surroundings were thoroughly cleaned, resulting in a visibly cleaner and healthier environment. The event fostered a sense of community responsibility and environmental consciousness among the participants. The collaboration between Samaritan and SES College was well appreciated, and the programme set a positive example for future community engagement activities.

NFPR –Human right Awareness Programme (7/6/2024)

On 7th June 2024, SES College hosted a Human Rights Awareness Programme organized by the National Forum for peoples Right (NFPR). The session was conducted by Sri Pradeepan Malooth, an experienced NFPR trainer. The programme aimed to educate students and community leaders about fundamental human rights, their importance, and ways to uphold them in everyday life.

Objective

The objective of the programme was to educate participants about fundamental human rights, their role in ensuring dignity, equality, and justice, and to highlight the responsibilities of individuals and communities in protecting and promoting these rights. The training also aimed to create awareness about common human rights violations and encourage proactive engagement in building a more inclusive and just society.

Outcome

The outcome of the programme was highly positive. Participants gained a clear understanding of their rights and duties as citizens, and many expressed their commitment to advocate for social justice and equality in their communities. The session helped develop a more socially responsible mindset among students and community leaders, strengthening the college's and NFPR's shared mission of promoting peace and human dignity through awareness and education.

Traffic Awareness Programme (15/11/2024)

On the occasion of World Traffic Day, observed on 15th November 2024, the Extension Committee of SES College NOSES , in collaboration with the Samaritan Palliative Care Society, organized a bike rally and an awareness class aimed at promoting traffic safety and responsible road behaviour. The initiative focused on educating both students and the general public about traffic rules, accident prevention, and the importance of safe driving practices.

Objective

The primary objective of the programme was to create awareness about traffic safety among students and the wider community. With increasing road accidents and traffic rule violations, the event aimed to encourage responsible driving, respect for road laws, and safe use of vehicles, especially among youth. It also sought to strengthen the message that safe roads contribute to healthier, more secure communities.

Outcome

The World Traffic Day programme was a great success, with active participation from students, staff, and members of the local community. The bike rally made a strong visual impact in the town, while the awareness class provided valuable knowledge to the participants. The programme helped in promoting a culture of safety and responsibility, especially among young riders. It also strengthened the role of the college in community outreach and public awareness campaigns.

HAIR DONATION CAMP (4/2/2025)

On 4th February 2025, in connection with World Cancer Day, the Extension Committee NOSES, in collaboration with the Samaritan Palliative Care Centre, organized a Hair Donation Camp at Chapparapadavu Higher Secondary School. The camp was conducted with the aim of supporting cancer patients who have lost their hair due to chemotherapy by providing them with natural hair wigs, thereby helping restore their confidence and dignity.

Objective

The main objective of the hair donation camp was to encourage voluntary hair donation from students and the public to help make free wigs for cancer patients. The initiative aimed to promote empathy, social commitment, and awareness about the emotional struggles faced by cancer patients, especially regarding body image and self-esteem.

Outcome

The event helped spread a powerful message of compassion and support, encouraging more people to contribute to such causes in the future. It also strengthened the bond between educational institutions and palliative care initiatives in the region.

RACESES

RACESES –ACCADAMIC EXTENSION PROGRAMME

Remedial Assistance Community Education

SES College's transformative student-teacher program, RACESES, in collaboration with LEAP, has unlocked the hidden potential of numerous young minds. 80 student volunteers from diverse academic backgrounds representing various departments of our college. Through RACESES an educational assistance program for underprivileged students, they were paired with dedicated mentors who nurtured their talents and instilled unwavering belief in them. Today, they all exude confidence, overcoming obstacles and carving a path towards a future brimming with boundless possibilities. Their remarkable success resonates throughout our college, benefiting students from all disciplines.

Objective

The main objective of RACESES was to provide free educational assistance to students from disadvantaged backgrounds, while also creating a platform for student volunteers to practice peer mentoring, leadership, and social responsibility. The program aimed to bridge learning gaps, encourage confidence in young learners, and promote inclusive education through regular mentoring and personal engagement.

Outcome

The outcome of the program has been highly inspiring. The mentored students showed remarkable improvement in academic performance, communication skills, and overall self-confidence. Many of them, who once struggled with basic concepts, are now setting clear academic goals for their future. The initiative also created a strong sense of community and service among the volunteers, enhancing their personal growth and inter-departmental collaboration. The impact of RACESES is visible across the college, as its success continues to motivate students from all disciplines to actively contribute to educational equity and social change.

SIP (Student Initiative in Palliative)

Vision and Mission

The Student Initiative in Palliative (SIP) at SES College Sreekandapuram has been a transformative platform for students to engage with the field of palliative care and volunteer for the welfare of individuals facing terminal illnesses. The initiative was launched with the objective of fostering social responsibility, empathy, and community involvement among the students while addressing the growing need for compassionate palliative care services in society.

Vision

To develop a socially responsible and compassionate student community that actively works to improve the quality of life for individuals with serious illnesses through organized volunteerism, awareness programs, and focused palliative care initiatives.

Mission

To empower students to engage in meaningful palliative care activities through comprehensive training, field visits, and hands-on experience in home care settings. We aim to instill a deep sense of social obligation and commitment towards the welfare of marginalized communities, thereby shaping a generation of students who are not only academically proficient but also socially responsible and empathetic towards the needs of others.

SIP SES COLLEGE
Students Initiative in Palliative

Objective

The main objective of the project was to reduce the suffering of poor patients by giving them the medicines they need on time. It also aimed to help students become more socially responsible by involving them in useful community service. The project was started to improve the lives of patients who are seriously ill and to make people in the local area more aware of palliative care.

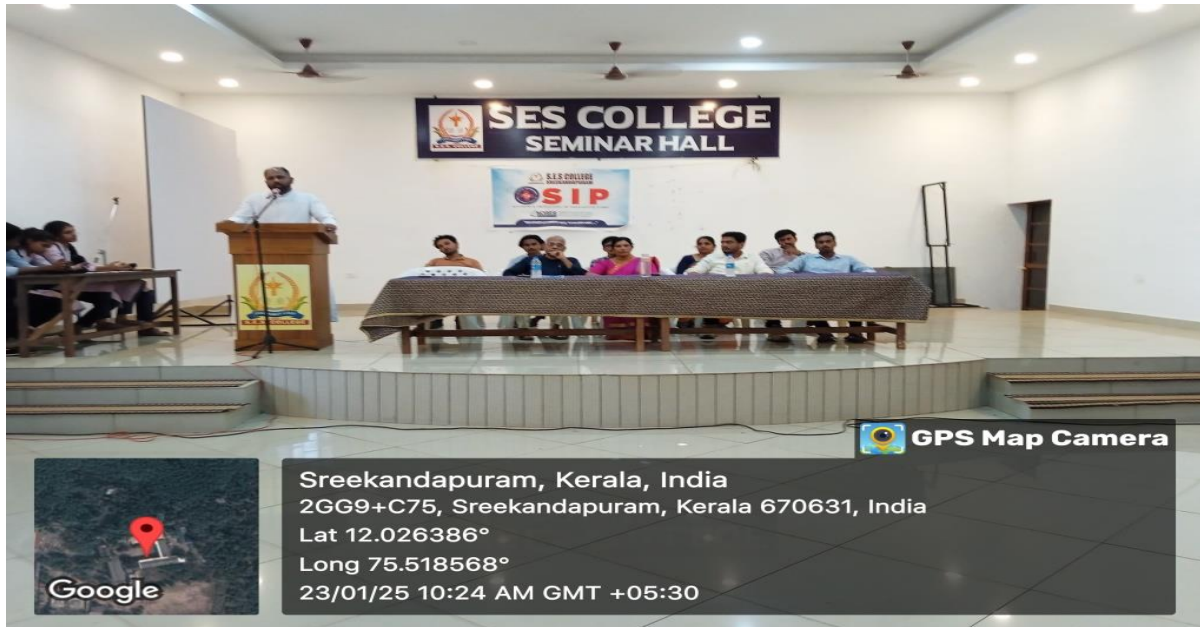

Outcome

The outcome of the initiative has been impactful and positive.. The project encouraged active student participation, creating a platform for them to engage in compassionate healthcare work. The community welcomed the effort, and the collaboration between the college and the palliative care society proved to be a successful model of social intervention and care.

The initiative was widely appreciated and is expected to continue as an annual or bi-annual event to support social causes.

Life Saving Training (1/2/2025)

On 1st February 2025, the SIP Unit (Student Initiative in Palliative) of SES College organized a Life-Saving Training Program for student volunteers. The session was led by Sri Sasidharan K. V., a highly respected educator and recipient of the National Teacher Award. The training aimed to equip the students with essential life-saving skills to better support patients and families during emergency situations, particularly in the context of palliative care.

Objective

The objective of the program was to equip SIP volunteers with basic emergency care skills such as first aid, CPR, and other life-saving techniques, which are especially relevant when dealing with critically ill or bedridden patients in palliative care settings. The session aimed to prepare students to respond effectively in medical emergencies, while also fostering a deeper understanding of patient safety and compassionate care.

Outcome

The outcome of the training was highly positive. Volunteers gained practical knowledge and hands-on experience, which increased their confidence in handling real-life situations during home visits or community care. The program also helped develop a sense of responsibility, empathy, and professionalism among the participants. Overall, the training enriched the SIP initiative by strengthening the skill set of its volunteers and enhancing the quality of support offered to palliative patients.

GENDER CLUB ACTIVITIES

Anemia Awareness Class 12/8/2024

On 12th August 2024, an Anemia Awareness Class was held at SES College, Sreekandapuram, organized by the Gender Resource Centre under Sreekandapuram Municipality, in association with the JillaKudumbashree Mission, and coordinated by the Extension Committee of SES College. The program aimed to raise awareness about anemia among college students, especially young women, and included an on-site anemia screening camp.

Objective

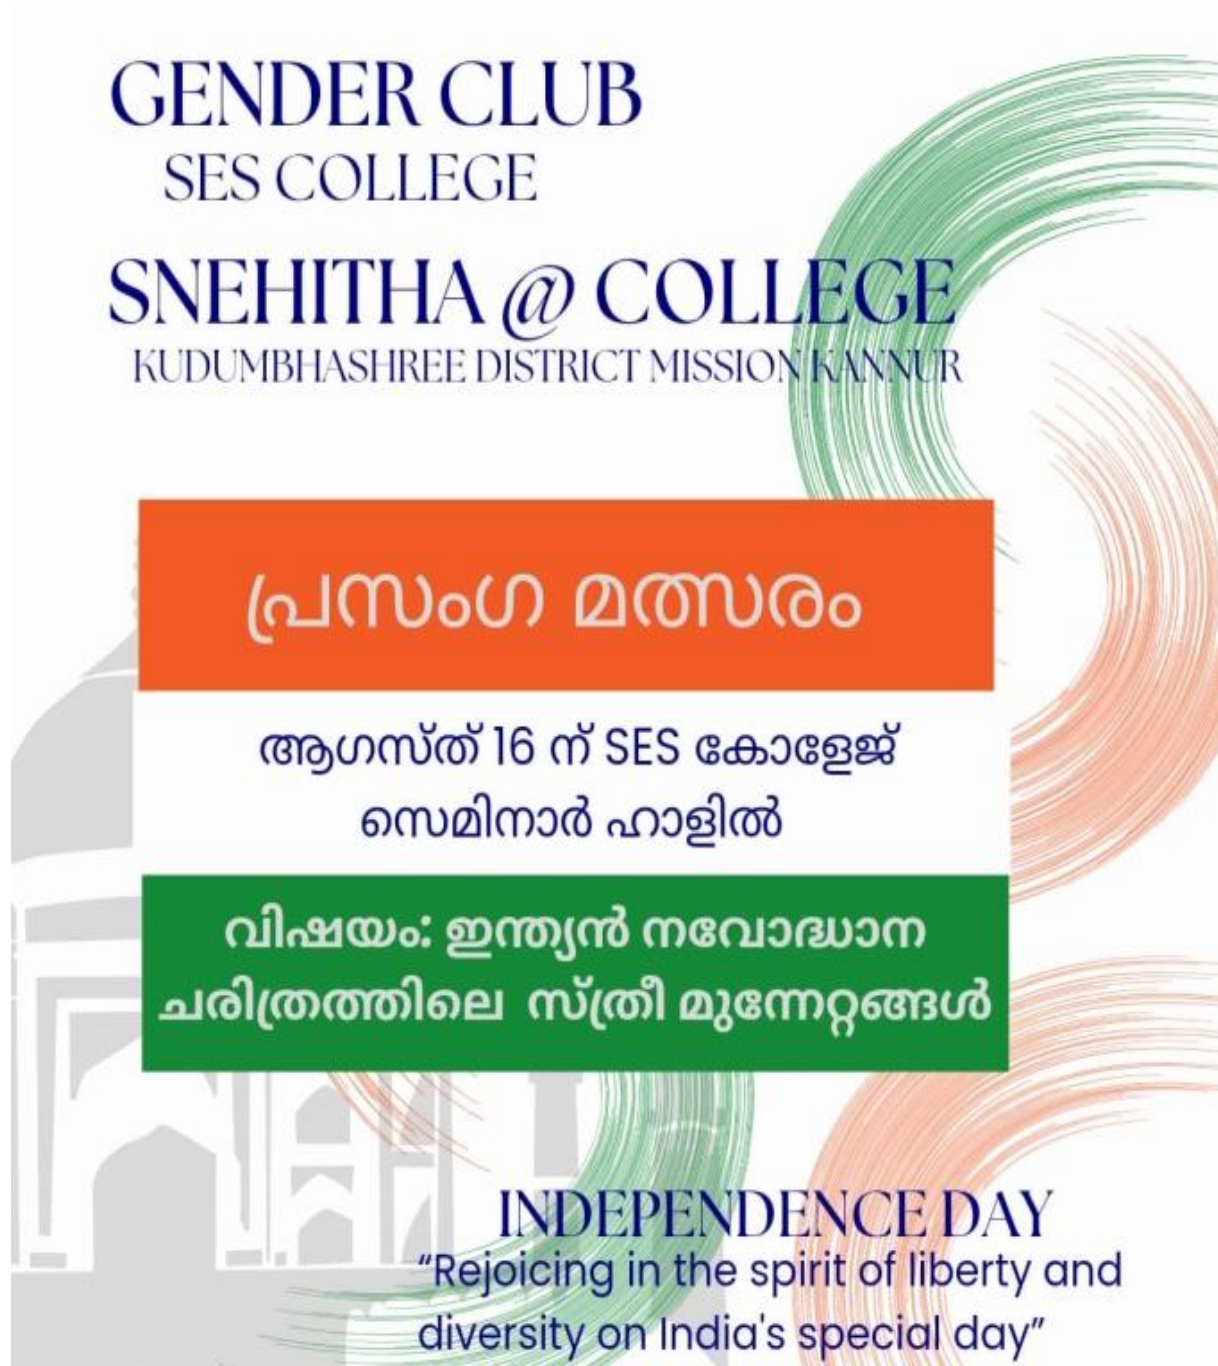

The primary objective of the program was to educate students about anemia—its causes, symptoms, and prevention—and to promote early detection through hemoglobin level testing. The initiative also aimed to highlight the importance of nutritional awareness, iron intake, and regular health check-ups in maintaining overall well-being.

Outcome

The program was a significant success, with active participation from both students and faculty members. Several students were identified with early signs of anemia and received guidance for proper follow-up. The initiative not only increased health awareness on campus but also encouraged students to take proactive steps toward better health and nutrition. The collaboration between the college and local civic bodies demonstrated the power of community-linked health education.

SPEECH COMPETITION -16/8/2024

To mark the 77th Independence Day, a speech competition was conducted on 16th August 2024 at SES College, organized by the Gender Resource Centre of Sreekandapuram Municipality, in association with the Extension Committee and NOSES unit of SES College. The event aimed to highlight the often-underrepresented role of women in India's freedom struggle and to inspire students to explore this crucial part of our history.

Objective

The primary objective of the competition was to encourage students to understand and appreciate the significant contributions made by women during India's fight for independence. It aimed to foster patriotism, gender awareness, and historical knowledge, while also providing a platform for students to develop their public speaking and critical thinking skills.

Outcome

The event witnessed enthusiastic participation from students across various departments. It successfully raised awareness about the indispensable role of women in India's independence movement and inspired the youth to value both gender equality and national heritage. Winners were felicitated with certificates and prizes, and all participants were appreciated for their efforts. The programme reinforced the importance of gender-inclusive historical narratives and the value of student-led discussions on national topics.

GENDER TALK SHAW -24-1-25

In observance of National Girl Child Day, a Gender Talk Show was organized on 24th January 2025 at SES College, Sreekandapuram, by the Gender Resource Centre of Sreekandapuram Municipality, in collaboration with the Extension Committee NOSES of SES College.

The event stood out for its inclusive approach, featuring the active participation of members from the transgender community, who shared their lived experiences and insights on gender identity and social inclusion.

Objective

The core objective of the programme was to create an open and respectful space to discuss gender diversity, promote understanding of transgender rights and issues, and foster a sense of empathy and equality among students and the public. It also aimed to challenge prevailing stereotypes and support inclusive education and social acceptance.

Outcome

The event had a deep emotional and educational impact on the audience. Students gained firsthand understanding of the challenges faced by the transgender community and were encouraged to reflect on their own roles in promoting equality. The participation of transgender individuals helped break barriers of ignorance and prejudice, making the programme a significant step toward a more inclusive and compassionate campus environment. The Gender Talk Show served as a powerful reminder that true gender justice includes every voice and identity.

Thank you
